

Cardinal Health recently honored as "Corporate Partner of the Year" by the Columbus Chapter of the National Black MBA Association

Employee Communications 14-Dec-2006

Cardinal Health was recently honored by the Columbus Chapter of the National Black MBA Association (NBMBA) as their "Corporate Partner of the Year."

Cardinal Health beat out 17 other local organizations to win the "Corporate Partner of the Year" award, which was presented during a December 10th reception held at the Elizabeth Blackwell Center on Ohio State's campus.

"I think it was Cardinal Health's commitment to the mission of the NBMBA organization and their three cornerstones – Education, Employment, and Entrepreneurship – that really made us stand out from the competition," said Jeanetta Darno, Cardinal Health's director of Diversity.

For more information on The National Black MBA Association, visit their website where you can learn about their commitment to:

Providing innovative programs to stimulate intellectual and economic growth;
Building partnerships with key stakeholders who help facilitate this growth; and Increasing awareness and facilitating access to graduate management education programs and career opportunities in management fields.

To learn more about Cardinal Health's partnership with the National Black MBA Association and similar organizations, view this recent article.